little bit of nonsense depicting some of the happenings which sometimes result when students utilize present science facilities at NWMSC.

Such pleasures are soon to be a part of campus history. Construction work is already clearing a site for Northwest Missouri State's new three million dollar science building with tentative plans calling for a completion date of summer, 1968.

The tri-level brick structure will be built on a site just northwest of the Administration Building. The modern complex, which will face southwest, is designed to keep pace with increased enrollment and could adequately provide science facilities for a student body of 7,000.

Highlighting plans for the new building are more and better laboratories, larger classrooms and lecture areas, and increased storage space. Each floor will have a seminar room, numerous classrooms, and separate laboratories for general and advanced courses.

The air conditioned building will have a science methods laboratory for use by elementary education majors and each department, a lab for faculty research.

Department divisions will remain the same in the new building. The physical and earth sciences rooms will be on the first floor, biology on the second, and chemistry on the top floor.

And, oh yes, each floor may have its own ice making machine!

Film-Studies Series Opens For All at MSC

Northwest Missouri State College students and teachers are welcome to participate in the UCCF-Wesley and the Newman Club film-study group.

The first film entitled "Intruder in the Dust," presented Sept. 29, dealt with the problems of racial discrimination. Each of the forthcoming films is secular and evokes thought as it entertains. Before every movie a resource person will present a brief introduction and some study questions or guides. These assistants are chosen from the faculty of NWMSC and from the residents of Maryville.

The films are scheduled as follows: "Birth of a Nation," Oct. 20; Six Experimental Films, Nov. 10; "Mr. Hulot's Holiday," Nov. 17; "All Quiet on the Western Front," Nov. 20; "High Noon," Dec. 8; "The Quiet One," Dec. 11; "The Mouse That Roared," Dec. 15; "Behold a Pale Horse," Jan. 12; and "Open City," Jan. 15.

Each showing will begin at 6:30 p. m. in the fellowship hall of the Wesley Foundation Student Center. Season tickets priced at $3.00 may be purchased at the Wesley Foundation or the Newman Center. Tickets for individual performances are available for 50 cents.

The Rev. Ray Gass, campus minister of the Wesley Foundation, and Father James Crafton of St. Gregory's Church and the Newman Center are supervisors of the program.

Students are using this series to help themselves realize that the motion picture industry produces a form of art which has passed from the simple form of entertainment to an art employed as a means of communication today.

Modern NWMSC Cafeteria Offers Special Services

Facilities at New Cafeteria Surpass Others in Region

Facilities at the new cafeteria are those to be desired by the staff of any hotel or food service center.

In discussing the facility, Glenn Vogt, food service director for the 650 capacity eating area in the new complex, said, "It's one of the most modern college feeding operations in the Mid-west area."

Mr. Vogt came to Northwest Missouri State College three years ago from Denver, Colo., where he was in charge of an 11-floor dining operation.

"The food preparation and serving systems here, however, like anything new, require a breaking-in period," Mr. Vogt explained.

Fifty-two full time employees are working during the breaking-in period as are numerous part-time student aids. More student workers are needed. The new cafeteria, which is located between the new dormitories, at the northwest corner of the campus, contains its own processing departments.

Carcass beef is handled in a specially designed butcher shop, with an experienced butcher making the cuts. A bake shop is staffed with two professional bakers, plus an assistant. The pastries that are freshly served on campus are never more than three hours old when they are served. Similar food under the old system sometimes was 12 to 18 hours old when sold to students.

Pastries can be ordered from the bake shop by fraternities and other organizations on campus wishing to serve cake, cookies or donuts at a function. This can be done by contacting Mr. Vogt, three days prior to delivery, which is free to on-campus organizations and to other college associated groups.

"Service upon service," could well be the new facility's motto.

Pictured with choice beef quarters are Jack Swinford, former Green Hills butcher, and Glen Vogt, food service director, in the modernly equipped butcher shop.

'Our Town' Cast to Portray Life at Turn of Century

Life in a small town in New Hampshire, before the days of the movies, automobiles, and bridge parties, is the basis for the nostalgic story of "Our Town," the comedy-drama by Thornton Wilder which went into rehearsal last week.

A Pulitzer Prize winner which ran on Broadway for almost a year, "Our Town" will be presented Nov. 9, 10, and 11. Dr. Ralph Fulson, chairman of the Speech and Drama Department, has announced.

In Grover's Corners, N. H., setting for the play, life was a great deal less complicated than it is today. There was excitement in having an ice cream soda at the drug store or in attending choir practice with Mrs. Gibbs and Mrs. Sloames.

Life was quiet; its pleasures were simple, and people seemed to have more time to enjoy both. "Our Town" is about the normal, natural, ordinary happenings in the lives of the folks in Grover's Corners — growing up, marrying, living, and dying.

David Shestak will play the stage manager who serves as the play's narrator. Tom O'Connor will play the town doctor, Richard Heinz will be seen as the editor of the local paper, and Marcia Hensleigh and Ann Nielsen will portray their respective wives. As the doctor's gangling son and the editor's pretty daughter, Tom LaVelle and Margaret Price will carry the shy romance which is said to furnish many of the play's most beautiful and touching moments.

Other important roles in a cast of over 50 have been assigned to Ken Duff, John Hoffman, Harold Webb, Joe Maltberger, Mike Overbey, Cliff Cromer, Jack Humphrey, Donnis Allen, Greg Woolridge, Lawrence Carter, Herbert White, Jerry Eisenhour, Henry Lemire, Mark Kieser, Danny Robertson, Ronald Dyeche, Joe Phares, and Copper Robbins.

Other women's roles went to Marilee Crockett, Janice Couch, Susan Blakely, Diana Jansen, Sue Boyer, Sue Calbreath, and Cheryl Reineke.

Council to Make Intramural Plans

Women's intramural plans will be formulated at a supper meeting given Oct. 19 for the women's intramural council by Dr. Kathryn Riddle.

After the meeting, notices will be posted in the residence halls and Martindale Gymnasium for those interested in organizing volleyball and bowling teams. Team lists should be given to Carol Wolverton, council chairman, or Dr. Riddle.

Members of the council, selected from the PEM club by Dr. Riddle, include Miss Wolverton, chairman, and Bonnie Johnson and Alberta Uehlinger, assistants.

Volleyball chairman is Marilyn Wilson assisted by Sandra Eckhoff. Pat Nold, who heads the bowling committee, is assisted by Suzanne Mason.

Basketball chairman Beverly Sheetz is aided by Joyce McQuerry, while badminton and table-tennis head is Christie Beal, assisted by Janet Raninger.

German Talk Featured at Noon

Achtung! Stammtisch is coming to NWMSC.

Stammtisch, a word meaning customary table, is a traditional facet of German culture. Around this table gather city fathers and other dignitaries to discuss the weighty problems of the day. Needless to say, traditional German refreshment is served at such meetings.

Robert A. Govier, assistant professor of German, commented: "Although you may not have any weighty problems, everyone is invited with only one prerequisite, that we speak only German. Alas, we will have to forego the traditional German refreshments."

Stammtisch will meet Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from noon until 1 p. m. along the south wall in the Hawthorne room of the Union. Oh, you can already translate the word Achtung? You also understand the dialogue of Hogan's Heroes? If you have given an affirmative answer to one or both of the above questions, you are needed at Stammtisch! Auf wiedersehen.

AWS Publishes Activity Calendar

Associated Women Students began selling activity calendars this fall as one of their main money-making projects.

The calendars note all social and organizational events pertaining to campus life, as well as all football and basketball games. Other occasions listed are associated with coming events, both traditional and novel, sponsored by AWS.

All women students are considered members of this organization. Its purpose is to coordinate women's activities.

Students may purchase the calendars in any residence hall. In discussing the project, DeAnn Bowers, head of the AWS Style Show, commented, "We would especially like to interest the faculty in our scheduled calendar of school events."

Calendars are available to all faculty members through the office of Dr. Leon Miller, dean of instruction. Students can purchase them at the main desk of all women's residence halls.

The calendar runs from September through May.

THE STROLLER

... Mr. (or is it Miss?) Stroller wonders about the Hudson Hall houseboy with the black-eye. Did he go into the wrong room one too many times, or would he just "rather fight than switch"?

... Ye old Stroller simply loves to study by flashlight, candlelight, and any of various incense burners. When the lights keep going out, one learns quickly. If the water goes off for five hours at a time — what next? I hope not the heat!

... Playing touch football in the halls, listening to Bill Cosby records, popping popcorn, and watching "mush rush" out of the third floor windows are a few of the varied freshman occupations noticed by the Stroller.

"Practice makes perfect." Ye old Stroller has heard that by practicing his Tarzan yell in the halls of one of the men's residence halls a NWMSC sophomore has won the yell contest hands down.

... Keenly the Stroller eyes the girls' physical education classes outdoors in their gym outfits. One brisk morning girls were wearing sweatshirts over their uniforms. I've heard of frosted lipstick, but chapped lips and frosted knees?

... A new teacher on the staff has aptly named those late afternoon classes, "the graveyard shift."

Bye, there! Guess I'll just be strolling along.

Former Peace Corps Worker in Africa Enrolls at Northwest State College

While attending a Methodist summer conference at Simpson College, Mark Current, a freshman from St. Louis, filled out a post card requesting information pertaining to the Peace Corps volunteer.

Soon after Mark sent his post card, he began receiving Peace Corps data and questionnaires. Eleven months later, he entered an intensive three-month training program at Howard University and later at St. Croix in the Virgin Islands. Studies occupied 11 hours a day, six days a week. His subjects included French, area studies, American studies, world affairs and communism, personal hygiene and community health, physical training and recreation, and Peace Corps Service.

Mark went to Gabon as a mason but also worked as a carpenter. His assignment was to help construct 30 schools and 85 homes. These buildings were completed by Peace Corps workers and native volunteers.

Gabon Republic lies on the west coast of Africa directly astride the equator and is about the size of Colorado. Mark affectionately calls this area of Africa "the arm pit." Four seasons, two long and two short, bring alternate dry and rainy periods, but the climate is hot and humid constantly. Temperatures average between 71 and 86 degrees the year around. Annual rainfall amounts to nearly 100 inches in the South and half again that much in the North.

Since Gabon is a former colony of France, French is the official Gabonese language. There are many local languages of which Fang is the most common. Apart from 4,500 Europeans in Gabon, the Fangs and the Eshiras make up the largest ethnic groups, the former Peace Corps worker said.

Mark reported that the people accepted him very well. In his own words, "The key to getting along anywhere is to be yourself." He feels the people are no tvery race conscious, and whites and natives mingle freely. The natives extreme friendliness is continuously expressed in their warm embraces upon meeting a friend. When asked why he joined the Peace Corps he replied, "To help people to help themselves."

The corps has three basic functions: 1) to do something; 2) to get to know and understand people better; 3) to help the people understand Americans better. After finishing his two-year term, Mark remained in Gabon an extra year to work on a Catholic mission. He received $100 a month, or $25 a month more than he earned with the Peace Corps. A volunteer earns a terminated payment of $1,800 for his two-years service. Income tax is also deducted from this salary. Eleven cents an hour is a Peace Corps worker's wages.

At present, Mark's future plans are to continue his education. Upon graduation he intends to return to Gabon.

Movies on Controversial Issues Discussions, Social Hour Series

It's new; it's challenging; it's provocative, its stimulating; and it's here on the NWMSC campus!

Once again the Union Board stretches the range of activities to reach more and more college students. Noteworthy movies concerning controversial issues headlined in the news are scheduled to be shown in the Student Union, each to be followed by an informal discussion period.

"It's not like a classroom where everything is cut and dried," says Bob Dickey, program director. "There is a need for some area where students can discuss and argue their views without classroom stiffness, and the Union hopes to fulfill this need."

An added attraction will be, if possible, a representative or spokesman associated with a group or organization discussed in each movie. Also, refreshments will be served during discussion.

These movies and discussions are open to all students. Time, date, and location will be posted weekly.

Two movies have already been shown: Detached Americans, concerned with the idea of the not becoming involved in the problems of others, and Ku Klux Klan: The Invisible Empire. This is a behind-the-scenes report of the Klan.

Movies yet to come are just as timely and controversial: The Crisis of Presidential Succession, to be shown Oct. 26; Biography of a Cancer, Oct. 31; Storm Over Supreme Court, Nov. 7; Abortions and the Law, Dec. 1, and Birth Control and the Law, Dec. 13.

NWMSC students are invited and urged by the Union Board to take advantage of this educational opportunity and attend these movies and discussions.

In Tribute to Dr. W. A. Lafferty

"A master teacher — He went about his way quietly helping others whenever he could."

This is the tribute a fellow instructor gives to Dr. William A. Lafferty, chairman of the Department of Mathematics at Northwest Missouri State College.

Dr. Lafferty, who died Sunday following a long illness, had taught at the college the past 17 years. He had been chairman of his department 10 years. Always a scholarly gentleman, he had returned to advanced studies several years ago and received his Doctor of Education degree from Columbia University, New York, in 1956.

Never was Dr. Lafferty too tired or too busy to help a puzzled student gain new insight into the world of mathematics. Of him could it be said as of Chaucer's clerk in "Canterbury Tales": "Gladly would he learn and gladly teach."

To this dedicated professor, Northwest Missouri State College pays tribute.

Ted Mack to Feature Local Singing Group

Congratulations from the Missourian staff go to Lorri Bird and Jack Estes, NWMSC freshmen, and their fellow singers from the Nodaway-Holt School vicinity.

Last weekend, the vocal group flew to New York to make a tape for their appearance on the Ted Mack Amateur Hour Oct. 23 at 4:30 p.m.

This group of eight youths started as a school group, won top rating in state contests, and went on to added fame this summer, appearing in the Krug Park Bowl and at the Missouri State Fair, Sedalia. They have also willingly shared their talents at many area programs. The support they have received from their schools and communities has been heartening. Supt. and Mrs. Bobby R. Gilly, Graham, accompanied them to New York.

Kampus omments

By Dale Gorsuch

Disorderly conduct charges were dismissed Sept. 26 against two Chicago student editors who tried to interview Cicero residents immediately preceding a scheduled civil rights march.

The two had set out Aug. 25 to find Negro opinion in the area. Needless to say, the duo spent the afternoon in jail for their trouble. "Beware, beginning journalists!" advises this columnist.

Where did the two ducks come from?

The pair of waterfowl currently residing on the college pond seem to be quite unaware of the quandary which their sudden appearance last summer has stirred up. Campus groundskeepers are not quite sure where the birds came from, but it is theorized that some enterprising individual contributed the ducks, undoubtedly "for the enhancement of campus beauty."

edly "for the enhancement of campus beauty."

Perhaps, Jean Jacques Rousseau, French author and philosopher, made a time-honored observation when he said, "To write a love letter, we must begin without knowing what we intend to say, and end without knowing what we have written."

Students Express—

Opinions on Academic Freedom

EDITOR'S NOTE: This question of the week is the first of what we hope will be a series examining the opinions of NWMSC students. Opinion presented is in no way the opinion of the Missourian staff, college faculty, or administration. All comments, criticisms, or complaints should be addressed to the Editors, Northwest Missourian, and should adhere to the policy set up in last week's paper.

This week we examine the area of academic freedom. The question posed was: "What do you feel is the place of academic freedom on this campus?"

• We students use the term freedom to refer to such ideals as freedom of expression, freedom of thought, and freedom of protest.

Here at Northwest Missouri State, our students are free to discuss controversial problems, pass resolutions, circulate ideas, and take other lawful action respecting any matter which directly or indirectly concerns them. In the classroom they become responsible for learning thoroughly the content of any course of study, but they are free to express different views and opinions from those of the teacher or the classroom material.

Discussing these ideas is a way of showing individualism and a means of exercising the freedoms afforded by the college. By using our academic freedom, we students prove that we are interested enough in education to want only the best instruction and favorable classroom situations. This means a situation where the instructor recognizes the students' right to question.

We are fortunate that NWMSC recognizes the rights of the individual and affords us a process for the protection of individual rights, academic freedom. This freedom is the structure and building block of education and the American way of life.

Nick Erganian, senior

• One of the primary objectives of every college and university should be to have a large degree of academic freedom. Both students and faculty should be able to express any view or refute any premise without fear of expulsion or loss of job.

College should not be just a process of gathering facts but rather a forum where one may form his own opinion rather than accept those of someone else. Without the right to question and debate, higher learning would not be education, but simply an indoctrination of the ideas of the past.

—Bruce Falk, senior

• Academic freedom is a term which NWMSC students associate with such far-off places as Berkeley, Calif. Academic freedom has little place on the Maryville campus.

Some instructors expect a student to attend classes, assimilate some knowledge, and regurgitate upon command. In four years, if he has managed to obtain his required number of hours by nodding his head, he may graduate.

How many students have really thought of academic freedom? Very few in the conservative Midwest have. Most are complacent. Only when students cease this type of existence will they have what is termed academic freedom.

—Gary Curtis, senior

• The question of academic freedom on the NWMSC campus is an interesting one and viewing the entire question, one could say that this freedom is certainly present at Maryville. The students can assemble, worship, and think as they please.

Of course, there are limitations on these freedoms. When assembly and "free thinking" become detrimental to the welfare of the college, the freedom cannot exist. The statement comes to mind that any right can only extend from one person to the "tip of his neighbor's nose." When college students are not mature enough to handle their academic freedom then the freedom must be taken away.

On this campus, the majority of the professors are willing to listen to the students' opinions without using the weapon of grades to squash the enthusiasm of the student. It is the job of the professor to guide the thinking of the student, and it must be the responsibility of the student to know how to express his opinions without abusing the right of free expression.

One can certainly be thankful that the students of NWMSC have the privilege to think and express their own thoughts. In turn, the professors here can be thankful that the students who attend this college have the maturity to express their thoughts without the rioting that has roared through some campuses. Everyone can be proud of NWMSC.

—Larry Downing, senior

Bearcats to Battle Bulldogs In Annual Hickory Stick Clash

Saturday in the Battle of the Hickory Stick against Kirksville, Coach Ivan Schottel's Bearcats would like to reword the old adage of "What's mine is mine and what's thine is thine," so that it would read "What's mine was thine and what's thine is mine."

The traditional game between the two clubs began in 1931 when President Uel Lamkin of NWMSC sent a hickory cane to Kirksville to be kept until the Bearcats could defeat the Bulldogs.

Nine days later President Lamkin became an Indian giver as the 'Cats scored a 7-0 victory and received the hickory cane back. Since that time, the winning team has kept the cane as a symbol of victory.

For the past 11 years, Kirksville janitors have had the privilege of dusting the cane, and more than janitors on this campus would gladly dust the cane if it were retained by the Bearcats this weekend.

Almost everyone knows that close only counts in horse-shoes, but nevertheless, NWMSC has come close to regaining the trophy three times since 1955. They missed victory by one point in 1958 and a year later gained a 12-12 tie with Kirksville. Last season the Bearcats fell to defeat by a 14-20 score.

In last season's outing, Kirksville scored on three long gainers. These TD's marked the only time during the game that the Bulldogs penetrated within the Bearcats' 40-yard line. On the other hand, Maryville moved the pigskin within the opponent's 40-yard line six times and was stopped inside the Bulldogs' 10-yard stripe three times.

Again this season, Kirksville was chosen by MIAA sportswriters as the toughest cookie in the conference. If the 'Cats hope to break the cookie jar and the magic spell Kirksville has utilized in the past, they will have to muster a better offensive effort than they did last weekend against Ft. Hays.

MIAA scribes seem to have judged the crystal-ball correctly as the Bulldogs have run roughshod over three of their first four opponents for a 3-1 slate. Two weeks ago, Kirksville mutilated Pittsburg State, 49-14. After the game, Pittsburg head coach Carnie Smith praised the Bulldogs and said, "They just beat the stuffings out of us." He added, "The Bulldogs are better than Warrensburg and Rolla at this stage of the game."

All-MIAA quarterback Rich Gorzynski, halfback Sharron Washington, and John Newcomb, end, head up the powerful Kirksville offense. Last season, Gorzynski, a transfer from Illinois, completed 96 of 165 aerial shots for 1,399 yards and 10 touchdowns. Washington led all MIAA rushers last year as he carried for 49 yards and 96 points. Newcomb was the league's leading pass receiver.

If Coach Maurice "Red" Wade's ground and air attack is ineffective, the strong, forward defensive wall headed by veterans Larry Johnson at end and tackle Bill Seaman will carry the burden.

A shift in the starting backfield line - up made little difference for the Bearcats against Ft. Hays as they rushed for 78 yards on the ground and supplemented this attack with an 128-yard aerial attack.

Bob Albanese, named offensive player of the week, scored the 'Cats' only six-pointer of the evening against Ft. Hays on a 40-yard pass from Don Orłowski.

Sophomore middle guard Bob Leach and senior middle line-backer Lonnie Hagan have led the Green and White in defensive statistics and will pose the biggest Bearcat defensive threat against the Bulldogs' explosive attack.

Game time for the Kirksville encounter is 8 p. m. at Rickenbrode Field.

Defense Shines In B-Team Loss

Defense was the key for both Peru and Northwest Missouri State B teams Oct. 11 as Peru slid by NWMSC, 13-6.

Alert NWMSC defensive players recovered three fumbles, snared two Peru passes, and blocked a punt during the game at Peru in their final contest this fall.

Quarterback Terry Edwards scored on a 15-yard scamper in the second half to cap the only major drive by the 'Cats. Off tackle plays in each half produce the two tallies for Peru.

The 'Cats were playing without the services of 18 players who practiced with the varsity and five gridsters who were injured.

NWMSC freshmen walloped William Jewell, 25-12, Oct. 7.

Basketball Practice

Basketball coach Dick Buckridge asks all freshmen and transfer students interested in trying out for the team to report to Lamkin gymnasium at 7 p. m., Monday, Oct. 17.

Cross Country Team Rushes by Creston In Initial Match

Coach Ryland Milner's harriers paced their way to victory in their season opener and defeated Creston, Iowa, Junior College 42-19 in a home meet last Wednesday.

The Bearcats copped the first three places in the 3.4 miles event. First to cross the finish line was Roger Stucki with a time of 18 minutes and 37 seconds. He was followed by Maryville cross country men Kent Kavanaugh and Louis Garrett with times of 19:23 and 19:26, respectively. Other team members whose running bolstered the Maryville cause were Lynard Phipps, who placed sixth, Rich Swaney, seventh, and "pushers," Denny Reed and Tom Sterrett.

Bearcats Lose To Peru Runners

In their second meet of the season Tuesday, the Bearcats journeyed to Nebraska where they were trounced by Peru State, 15-50.

Peru, rated as having one of the better cross country teams in the nation, swept the first five places in the rugged 3-mile contest. Leading the Nebraska onslaught was Tim Hendrick, who set a new school record for the course with a final time of 15 minutes.

Although the MSC runners were off the pace set by Peru, some managed to turn in better times than those they made in their previous meet with Creston. Maryville's lead man, Roger Stucki, finished the hilly course with a time of 17 minutes and 49 seconds. He was followed closely by Kent Kavanaugh who crossed the finish line seven seconds later.

Grapplers Get New Power

Bill Rex, Other Top Recruits Join Bearcat Wrestling Squad

By Carl Voss

Let head wrestling Coach Gerald Landwer show you the 1966-67 NCAA wrestling rule book.

You will see Northwest Missouri State's top prospect showing illegal holds across the nation. But Bill Rex doesn't make these holds customary. A NWMSC sophomore transfer student, he demonstrated the holds for photographers while he was a freshman at Iowa State.

An Iowa high school state wrestling champ for two years, Rex becomes a big hopeful for Landwer in the 137- and 145-pound weight classes.

Two other transfer grapplers are Ted Gere, a sophomore from Simpson College, Indianola, Iowa, and Steve Hinton, a junior from Ellsworth Junior College, Iowa Falls. They will wrestle in the 160- and 167-pound classes, respectively.

Two top freshman candidates come from the Eastern states. These newcomers, Stan Zeamer, 137 pounder from Elizabethtown, Penn., and Chuck Lyons, 130 pounder from Budd Lake, N. J., have impressive high school records.

Zeamer had a 53-9 record and made it into the state semifinals three years. Lyons was the state AAU champ in the Greco Roman and freestyle forms.

Terry Hartley, 115 pounder from Prairie High School, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, had the same wrestling coach as MSC co-captains Jerry Mason and Ron James. Hartley had a 54-5 record in high school.

Three freshman prospects are local boys. Bill

Madden, Danny Law, and Earl Baker Jr. all hail from Maryville. Madden was fifth in the state wrestling meet his junior year.

Dale Palmer, 167 pounds, from Corning, Iowa, won the 16-team Corning, Iowa, invitational in his weight class. He also was second in the district tournaments.

Landwer also lists as new wrestlers Wayne Garcia, Saydel High School, Des Moines; Mike Carey, Urbandale, Iowa; Pat Dizazzo, Providence, R. I.; Jack Humphrey, Fort Madison, Iowa, and Corry Crandall, Des Moines.

Landwer, in his fifth year at NWMSC, noted that several other prospects are presently out for football and will not report to the mat until later.
